KWR

The ImpactAlliantie is a Dutch network of nearly 400 experts from research, policy and practice across sectors and organizations aimed at improving the organization and evaluation of the societal impact of scientific research by promoting the development, application and sharing of knowledge on these topics.

This event will explore how stakeholder engagement can be stimulated and coordinated in collaborative research. Participants will exchange on challenges, opportunities, needs, and expectations of stakeholders and researchers. We will also learn about tools and practical actions to adopt in collaborative research to enable impact.

Register here by June 17th - Limited space!

During registration participants will be asked whether they want to host a parallel session on a format of their choice on topics or challenges they are facing related to stakeholder engagement and research impact and to share questions they would like to ask the panelists.
